The weather is warming up.

Summer will be here before we know it and you know what that means...grilling season!

To satisfy our craving, Slammin' Sliders is here today to cook up some juicy burgers!

Lots of food trucks offer sliders on their menus, but Chef Edward and owner Tom explain why their food stands out in a crowd: Slammin' Sliders debuted on the streets of Los Angeles back in September of 2010. Owner Tom quit the real estate business in Philly, packed up, and moved to SoCal to open up shop (errrr...truck) with Edward. In fact, Tom was inspired to start Slammin' Sliders after he saw a segment about food trucks on the Food Network.

When you think of a slider, it seems pretty basic, but Tom and Chef Edward think outside of the box. They use all sorts of flavor profiles, including French cuisine and Philly cheesesteaks...yum! The truck uses farm and ranch-sourced meats, so that makes everything even more delicious. Slammin' Sliders is also committed to doing well within their community. They employ several recovering addicts from the IMPACT drug and alcohol rehabilitation program. They see it as an opportunity for addicts to learn a trade and turn their lives around at the same time.

Each week, we surprise 1 AMP Radio listener with a free lunch from our featured truck.

Congrats to today's winner: Andrew from Monterey Park! If you want to win some free grub for you and your co-workers, listen to Carson on Friday mornings and you might just be our lucky caller! For those of you who want to find Slammin' Sliders on the streets, check out their website and follow them on Twitter!
