

New England Region on the Move...

When you see our LIUNA Organizing Vehicle out on the road this summer you'll know we are...

Supporting our members, signatory contractors and educating the public about clean natural gas energy options, the Laborers' New England Region is on the road spreading the message that natural gas transmission, distribution and private gas utility construction is good for our region.

New Englanders are currently paying $3 billion dollars more than necessary for energy this year! By expanding and upgrading our natural gas capacity across the region, we will not only significantly reduce energy costs but also create new job opportunities in this growing industry for LIUNA members!

Adam Lupino (top, left) and Scott Gustafson (bottom, right) spread the word at Bryant University